

1. Newton Method vs Gradient Descent Method:

Newton Method need to compute first-order derivative and second-order derivative when implementing optimizational problem.

Gradient Descent Method only need to compute first-order derivative when implementing optimizational problem.

in Deep Learning, compute only first-order derivative can reduce the amount of both computation and storage needed, which is significant when optimizational problems consist millions of parameters (like gigantic neural network).